

A positive attitude helps to beat exam stress UNDER PRESSURE?

FROM my own personal experience, there is no pressure on the modern youth from school but that's just me.

I know for a fact that over 50% of people at school are uneasy and worried about an upcoming exam.

I believe there is no need for this as this one exam isn't the pinnacle of your life.

I don't see why people worry about the silly things such as this, it is unnecessary stress on the person which just makes life so much harder.

If you look at these exams negatively it will lower your performance. If you go into these things with the wrong state of mind you might as well not do it at all.

To calm down for an upcoming exam I take a deep breath and think, it isn't the end of the world; it won't decide the rest of my life. And if I do badly I can retake the exam.

You can do breathing exercises and add a comical twist to the exam. If you do it correctly you can get yourself to look forward to it!

Anxiety over exams is of course a state of mind, and all states of mind can be overcome with its counterpart if you will.

The opposite to sadness and depression is joy and happiness, the same applies to anxiety.

Everyone's counterpart to their emotions is different, but once you found it you are set for that exam.

Good luck!

Join in festival

THIS year Commonweal School are involved in the planning and delivery of the Old Town Festival, notably the Family Party On The Lawn on Saturday, June 27.

This event runs from 1.45pm until 5pm and is a celebration of Old Town's cultural diversity and is very much a Community Cohesion event which aims to be open to all.

We are able to offer schools, ethnic groups and individuals the opportunity to showcase their talents on either the Music or Dance stages.

There are no age restrictions, so it doesn't matter if you are four or ninety! We suggest parents accompany children on the day.

There are also opportunities for transient street theatre slots to mingle amongst the crowds. Or perhaps you fancy being involved in the carnival procession.

There are no boundaries, you can take part in more than one event.

All schools and groups who participate can have a free pitch (normally worth £20) to advertise or fundraise in our Big School Fete area.

So, if you can sing, dance, play an instrument, act or know people that can, give Josie Williams a call on 01793 612727/427860 or email josie@commonweal.co.uk
